DISHMAN SPRINGS

The mountains of Kentucky embrace much scenery that is enchanting. The early morning sun is apt to disclose peaceful little pictures of farm homes nestling in tiny coves, or touch with a soft radiance the green hills and valleys. During the full noonday these same hills and valleys are clothed in a mantle of pure, bright green and at eventide they are the abode of quiet peace, where the birds call sweetly to their mates and the smoke from the cabin chimneys tell of "home, sweet home."

Set in the midst of our beautiful hills is Dishman Springs, known to every citizen of Knox County as one of the loveliest places in a section noted for its scenery.

As one climbs Paint Hill one gazes down into a beautiful valley and out to many distant hazy hills; thence thru an avenue of trees and on past the little school house until one enters the Dishman Springs property, and running along the winding road, finds oneself in the midst of cozy cottages and confronted by the new, commodious and comfortable Dishman Springs Hotel, presided over by Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Dishman, whose kindly and courteous welcome is of the sort one has been led to expect from those reared in the South.

The lobby of the hotel is spacious and the dining room is sufficiently ample for association dinners or for a friendly dance.

The kitchen—well, out of the kitchen, presided over by a culinary genius, comes those satisfying meals which are remembered for years as real periods of gustatory enjoyment.

The bedrooms are all upstairs and most of the guests love the broad balconies from which one glimpses harmonious settings of earth, sky and water, so mingled together as to create scenic vignettes hard to equate and still harder to surpass anywhere on this earthly footstool.

Yes, there is a golf course, nine holes—one which will delight every sturdy soul who prefers his golf with the first syllable of pepper in it, a golf course that gives food for thought converted into action.

Tennis devotees may not love all they wish on the perfect tennis court recently laid out for the benefit of guests of the hotel.

After these a sports dip in the beautiful lake will have its appeal and there is enough water in the lake for a thousand to be in the swim.

UNION COLLEGE DEVELOPMENT

The campaign that has been in progress for the past few months for the benefit of Union College closed last Monday night. The first unit of the $750,000 asked for endowment and building purposes was reached and a splendid start was made on the second unit. The total amount subscribed was $452,000. Of this amount the citizens of Barbourville subscribed $100,000. This was the greatest venture ever made by the city. The task of raising such an amount was thought futile when it was proposed, but the citizens, realizing the great value of the institution, went the limit and have demonstrated to the state their faith in Union College and its value to our community.

President Franklin deserves very great credit for his persistent labors in enlarging Union. It will be remembered that the school when he assumed charge in 1915 was in a critical condition. The collegiate course had been dropped and the standard of the institution was not as high as it should have been. Since his coming the collegiate department has been reinstated, a number have graduated with the baccalaureate degree and the enrollment of the college department has gradually increased. Next year there will be probably six graduates from the college alone.

The desire of Dr. Franklin though has been to standardize the school. This could be done only by securing additional endowment, the employment of more teachers, the erection of at least three new buildings, the enlargement of the library and installation of additional laboratory facilities. The amount that the board agreed upon was $750,000. One half of the amount was to be raised by last Monday and the balance to be secured within just as short a time after that date as possible.

The work of raising the first unit was to be in the Methodist Episcopal churches of Kentucky with the exception of Barbourville where it was made a community project. The Board of Education of the Methodist Episcopal Church was in charge of the development. Dr. John W. Hancher, the associate secretary of the Board, assumed charge last December and his assistants have been laboring here and in the state since then. The organization on the whole is made up of Methodist ministers selected from the different conferences. They work on a salary, the same being paid by the New York Board. This will counteract a current fallacy that the work of raising the college endowment was in the hands of promoters who were receiving a certain commission for their work. This may be the way some institutions secure money but the Methodist Episcopal Church has a finance organization of its own for the securing of the funds to run its schools and the cost of getting any money for their work is reduced to a very low figure.

Thruout the state over $300,000 was secured. Two large gifts came from outside the state; $25,000 from New York City and $20,000 from Mr. James M. Gamble, Cincinnati, Ohio.

The total amount, when secured, will enable the college to erect several new buildings and increase the endowment to $500,000 at least. The improvements will make the collegiate work done at Union acceptable at any university and give it a standing as an A-1 college. The enlargement will not begin until the close of the coming school year as none of the pledges are payable until January 1st, 1923.

DR. FRED A. AGAR

Dr. Agar, Secretary General of the Board of Promotion Northern Baptist Convention, a speaker of international reputation who is a favorite among Southern Baptists, is to be in Barbourville Friday afternoon and night.

'Tis a rare opportunity and you cannot afford to miss hearing him.

He is young who feels young.

Does the guest fish? Does the pull of a lively bass at the distant end of the line create emotions similar to those of boyhood days when we hooked one? Then go to it. The bass are there, big shining beauties, which will fight like good soldiers. As the quiet shadows fall, the homely word supper, or the dignified term dinner, sound both alike to the hungry visitor as he slips in to his seat and permits the white coated boys to spoil his appetite for the time being.

Afterwards, a chat and smoke amid the serene quietude of Mother Nature's night, watching the fireflies (or lightning bugs if you will have it so) decking the air with mysterious fairy lamps.

Then to bed with quiet nerves helped thereto by libations of the healing mineral water which has proved such a boon to many a sick person who had about given up hope for health.

Truly a delightful resort, of the kind that makes one en-rapport with nature and sweet, wholesome thought.

Mr. Knox Countian, at home or abroad, are you "telling the world" about Dishman Springs, Barbourville, in the honorable State of Kentucky? Are you, Mr. Outside Knox Countian, telling your friends about this lovely playground, or your sick, tired friend about this "Nature's Sanatorium" where nerve force and health may be regained.

If not, Mr. Outside Knox Countian, get busy, we pray thee.

It takes but little imagination to see a bigger hotel at Dishman Springs and cottages dotting the landscape in every direction. Other oaks from acorns sprang and Dishman Springs is a dandy acorn.

Let every Knox Countian, past, present or future, say "I'll tell the world" about Dishman Springs and then do it.

We need it in our business. Others need it in their lives.

DISHMAN SPRINGS HOTEL AN ASSET TO THE COUNTY

Dr. A. T. McCormick in his address Thursday night pointed out the value of an institution like the Dishman Springs Hotel to a community commercially for its supplies must come from the surrounding country. The more patronage it has the greater the demand on the community for supplies and thus farmers and merchants,—the real producers—find a ready home market. Let us boost and patronize Dishman Springs and its hotel.

Judge Stamper received an interesting little box thru the mail one day last week. It contained one queen bee and six workers to feed her ladyship on the journey. They were buzzing as tho happy.
